DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Buer (5,963,104).

As per claim 1, Buer discloses in figure (5A) a device for generating a random signal including a transient-state electronic circuit (510) having an output terminal (515) and means (505,512) for controlling the feedback loop of the circuit (510) to generate a random signal. Since the temperature of the circuit (510) clearly depends on whether the feedback loop is enable or disable, means (505,512) can be seen as means for controlling warming and cooling of the circuit (510) as claimed.

As per claims 2 and 11, Buer also discloses the device is a part of an integrated circuit (see col. 11, lines 52-56).

As per claims 3-7, Buer also discloses in figure 5A the device comprising an oscillator circuit with a series of odd inverting circuits and a feed back loop as claimed.

2. Claims 8-10 are allowed.

3. Applicant's arguments filed on 11/10/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Although Buer does not specifically disclose means (505,512) is to control warming and cooling of the device, the temperature of the circuit (510) is clearly depend on whether the feedback loop is enable or disable. Therefore, means (505,512) can be seen as means for controlling warming and cooling of the circuit (510) as claimed.

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

5. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
